

Photo by Jean-Luc Chapin

June 2005, #159

Miller Wine Works
2003 Syrah
Brookside Vineyard

90 Points

The 2003 Syrah Brookside Vineyard possesses loads of crème de cassis interwoven with smoky, earthy, plum liqueur, and fig aromas. It is a medium to full-bodied Syrah displaying lovely purity along with abundant amounts of fruit, sweet tannin, adequate acidity, and a long, layered finish. It should drink well for 5-6 years.

www.millerwineworks.com

MILLER WINE WORKS
M I L L E R

Miller Wine Works
2002 Syrah
Brookside Vineyard
89 points

The dense ruby/purple-tinged 2002 Syrah Brookside Vineyard exhibits an earthy, blackberry and cassis-scented nose with hints of cherries and smoke in the background. Medium to full-bodied, it is no wimpish wine with 15.5% alcohol, but both the alcohol and the tannin are well-integrated. The finish is fresh, lively, and rich. Drink it over the next 4-5 years.

Miller Wine Works
2003 Grenache
Sage Canyon Vineyard
87 points

There appears to be more varietal character in the 2003 Grenache Sage Canyon Vineyard than in the 2002. Additional notes of kirsch, raspberries, licorice, and pepper emerge from this medium to full-bodied, well-delineated effort. While not complex, it is a satisfying, savory effort to enjoy over the next several years.

Miller Wine Works
2002 Grenache
Sage Canyon Vineyard
87 points

Grenache is a tough animal to tame, but Miller Wine Works has done an admirable job with its 2002 Grenache Sage Canyon Vineyard. Made in a ripe style (15.6% alcohol), it possesses notes of plums, figs, and prunes as well as sexy, soft, lush flavors filled with glycerin. This voluminous, heady, seductive, hedonistic Grenache is ideal for drinking over the next several years.